

Unit 3 Online Learning Week 5

Tuesday - Reading

As she began to wash the clothes in the river she sang a sad little song--"wash the linen, weed the garden, grind the grain." The hippopotamus grew tired of this little song and splashed back into the river. The splashing of the water wet Rhodopis's slippers. She quickly grabbed them up, wiped it off and placed them in the sun to dry. As she was continuing with her chores the sky darkened and as she looked up she saw a falcon sweep down, snatch one of her slippers, and fly away.

- 1) Why did the hippopotamus go back to the river?
- 2) Why did Rhodopis take her slippers off?
- 3) What animal stole one of her slippers?
- 4) Write a prediction. What do you think falcon will do with the slipper?

Answers

1) He was tired of her sad song

2) Her slippers had gotten wet as the hippopotamus splashed into the river.

3) A falcon

4) Own opinions.